Connecting with the art and heart of facilitation

This week, Sheila McGovern, FoNS Person-centred Practice Facilitator offers a personal reflection on The Heart of Facilitation by Steve Dilworth.

It's well worth a read, that is both Sheila's blog and the book itself! Please do let us know your thoughts!

Person-centred Cultures: A FoNS Development Programme

Staying on the subject of facilitation, can we remind you that this fully-funded programme is open for applications so please do apply yourself, or share with colleagues?

Facilitation is a key aspect of all FoNS programmes; our programmes are about working with participants to enable them to learn from and with each other, their own practice and own experience, becoming the leaders of culture change within the workplace. In turn, participants are empowered to work with their own teams in collaborative, inclusive and participatory ways.

Places are limited on the programme but if you don't apply, you'll never know!

Want to know more? Visit the Person-centred Cultures Programme pages or drop in on one of the info sessions below.

Applications by 5pm Wednesday 25 June 2025

We welcome applications from people from diverse backgrounds in any health or social care setting, from anywhere in the UK.

Maria and Mohammad talk about Resilience-based Clinical Supervision for social care

We'd like to thank Maria Luengas and Mohammad Khan for sharing their thoughts with us. At the time the video was recorded, Maria was delivering RBCS to managers in social care and the impact is so far-reaching! Re-igniting passion for care, supporting staff and residents, enabling managers to be the supportive leader they want to be! Please do watch!

And please do share with colleagues and connections in social care. Our fully funded RBCS programme for social care is available to registered nurses in social care in England.

#Red4Research Friday 20 June 2025

#Red4Research brings together all those participating, supporting, and undertaking research. On the front line and behind the scenes incredible research teams collectively work on health and social care research.

Red4Research Day aims to get as many people as possible wearing red to demonstrate their support and appreciation for all those participating, undertaking and supporting research. It is an opportunity to showcase and celebrate the phenomenal work, learning legacy and innovative treatments/systems/techniques that have arisen from R&D.
